Removal Of The IID

Completion of Required Period

If you use the IID for the required period of time and become eligible to operate a vehicle without the IID, you must visit a Hearings Officer and obtain a letter stating that the IID may be removed. You must then schedule an appointment with the vendor and bring the letter with you.

Note: Upon completion of the required period, your IID will not be authorized for removal if you had any IID infractions or violations during the past six consecutive months.

Early Removal

If your license is suspended due to IID violations, the IID will be removed and you will not be allowed to operate a vehicle.

If, after receiving authorization from a Hearings Officer, you remove the IID early, your license will be suspended. You can get your license back as soon as you have the IID reinstalled (as long as your license is not suspended for any other reasons).

If you remove the IID early without authorization from a Hearings Officer, you will be scheduled for a hearing and your license may be revoked for 10 years.

Ignition Interlock Devices

Melanie's Law

The Act Increasing Penalties For Drunk Drivers in the Commonwealth, also known as "Melanie's Law," went into effect on October 28, 2005. Its purpose, as suggested by its name, is to enhance the penalties and administrative sanctions for Operating Under the Influence (OUI) offenders in Massachusetts.

Melanie's Law requires that an Ignition Interlock Device (IID) be used both by drivers with a hardship license and by drivers whose licenses are eligible for reinstatement.

In addition to this new law, the Registry of Motor Vehicles (RMV) is changing its policy regarding who is eligible for a hardship license. To be eligible for a hardship license, you must now be able to present proof that you do not have access by public transportation to your required destination.

What Is An Ignition Interlock Device (IID)?

An IID is a handheld breath-alcohol monitoring device (approximately the size of a cellphone) that is electronically connected to a vehicle's ignition. Before starting your vehicle, the IID requires you to take and pass a breath test. It also requires you to take re-tests while you are operating the vehicle.

Who Needs An IID?

There are three possible scenarios in which you need to use an IID:

1. If you have 2 or more OUI convictions (for alcohol or controlled substances) and are eligible for a hardship license, you must use the IID for the length of the hardship license. You must also use the IID for an additional 2 years after your license is reinstated.
2. If you have 2 or more OUI convictions (for alcohol or controlled substances) and are eligible for license reinstatement, you must use the IID for 2 years after your license is reinstated. This 2-year period is in addition to any time you may have used the IID with a hardship license.
3. If a court orders you to use the IID for any reason, you must use the IID for the length of the court order.

Note: Upon completion of the required period, your IID will not be authorized for removal if you had any IID infractions or violations during the past six consecutive months.

The IID must be used in every registered vehicle that you own, lease, or operate (including your employer's vehicle). A restriction will be added to your license making it illegal to operate a vehicle that is not equipped with an IID.

If you do not have the IID installed in your vehicle(s), you will not be eligible for a hardship license and you will not be allowed to have your license reinstated.

Policy for Out-of-State Residents

Melanie's Law does apply to out-of-state licensed drivers who are convicted of two or more OUIs in Massachusetts. If an IID is required, you cannot drive in Massachusetts without one. To find out if you are eligible to reinstate your right to operate in Massachusetts, you will need to contact a Hearings Officer.

Operator's Responsibilities

Upon notification that you need an IID, you are responsible for all of the following:

- ◆ Installation - You must contact a vendor and schedule an installation.
- ◆ Payment - You must pay the vendor all of the required leasing and maintenance fees.
- ◆ Maintenance visits - You must return to the vendor within 30 days for your scheduled maintenance and data upload.
- ◆ Proper usage - You must follow all of the rules and guidelines you are given for using the IID and you must never tamper with or try to circumvent the use of the IID.

Minimum Vehicle Requirements For IID Use

In order for an IID to be installed, your vehicle must have a 12-volt electrical system and it must be in good running order. Check with an IID vendor for more details.

The IID will not be installed on motorcycles.

How Do I Get An IID Installed In My Vehicle?

1. Visit an RMV Hearings Officer for a hearing. The Hearings Officer will explain the criteria for hardship or full reinstatement.

Do not have an IID installed before you have received approval from a Hearings Officer.

2. Once you have been approved for a hardship or full reinstatement, the Hearings Officer will give you a list of certified IID vendors (this list is also posted at www.mass.gov/rmv). You will also be given paperwork and legal statements (affidavits) that must be completed and notarized. By signing these affidavits, you certify that you, as well as each licensed driver in your household, understand that you are not allowed to drive any vehicle without an IID and that you cannot try to bypass the IID in any way. The penalties for these actions are included on the affidavits.
3. Call a certified IID vendor for an installation appointment. Do NOT plan to drive yourself to the appointment – there are no exceptions to your requirement to drive a car with an IID. When you go to your appointment, bring proof of your identity. The vendor will install the IID in your vehicle and will give you detailed instructions on how to use and maintain it.
4. Once the IID has been installed, you must return to a Hearings Officer with the completed affidavits and proof of installation. A "Z" restriction will be added to your license. This restriction means that you are only allowed to operate a vehicle equipped with an IID. At this point, you will be able to complete the license reinstatement process.

How Does The IID Work?

Once the IID is installed, it must be used as follows:

1. Turn on the ignition and wait for the IID to display instructions indicating that you need to take an initial breath test.
2. Blow into the IID for a few seconds. If you pass the initial breath test, the IID will display the word "pass" and your vehicle will start.

If you fail the test (blood alcohol concentration of greater than .02), the IID will display the word "fail" and you will not be able to start your vehicle. You will then need to wait for your blood alcohol concentration to decrease before you take another test.

If you fail a second time within a service period, your vehicle will go into lockout and you will need to visit your vendor.

3. After the vehicle has started, you will be required to take rolling re-tests at random intervals while operating the vehicle. When it is time for a rolling re-test, the IID will beep and you will have five minutes to take the test. You can take the rolling re-test while driving, but it is recommended that, if it is safe and legal to do so, you pull over to the side of the road (on some roads this is illegal). If you do not take the rolling re-test, or if you turn off the ignition before taking the rolling re-test, this will be considered a missed test.

Note: The IID will never shut your engine off after it has been started.

The IID records all of your test results and all of your vehicle activity. Within 30 days, you will need to return to the vendor for a monthly maintenance visit (scheduled by the vendor). At this time, the vendor will upload the data from the IID and transmit this data to the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

If your IID goes into a state of lockout, you will be given 48 hours to return to the vendor, who will upload the data and reset the IID. If you do not return to the vendor within this time period, your vehicle will remain in a state of lockout and will need to be towed (at your expense) to the vendor.
